CHIEF MINISTER, WEST BENGAL

PREFACE

This is the 6th edition of the Administrative Calendar of the State Government.

Like previous years, the document chronicles the important activities and initiatives of various Departments, with targets proposed to be achieved within specified time frames.

The Administrative Calendar has already proved its utility in promoting transparency and accountability in the working of the Government. It has helped disseminate the overall vision of the State Government amongst all stakeholders and reinforce inter-departmental coordination, which is undoubtedly the key to good governance. Needless to say, this very important monitoring tool introduced by our Government, has improved delivery of public services and facilitated implementation of projects and schemes in a seamless manner. It has thus played a crucial role in helping the state attain a pre-eminent position in the country in the field of development and good governance.

I do hope that the current edition of the Administrative Calendar, like previous years, will be of immense help to all concerned.

I convey my heartiest greetings and best wishes to all.

(Mamata Banerjee)
