CHIEF MINISTER, WEST BENGAL

PREFACE

I am happy to know that the 10th edition of the Annual Administrative Calendar is now being brought out.

This annual initiative of the state government is an easily accessible reference point for all major activities taken up by the departments during the year and serves the purpose of a useful management tool for continuous monitoring of the set targets.

This edition of the administrative calendar too, will play a crucial role in our efforts to streamline the state administration and provide time-bound services to the citizens of the state. We believe this will improve the delivery of public services and facilitate implementation of projects and schemes in a holistic manner.

Over the years, this exercise has effectively helped the state government departments to ensure good governance at all levels of administration.

I hope the current edition of the Administrative Calendar will further raise the standards of governance and will be of immense help to all concerned.

My heartiest greetings and best wishes to all.

(Mamata Banerjee)
